TNLA List Use Policy

The TNLA membership mailing list will be used by members to promote a member's products and services, or otherwise communicate with members in a way that mutually benefits senders and recipients of the information. The list may not be used in any way that contradicts the established purposes, policies, agenda, and principles of TNLA, or in any way places at risk the reputation or effectiveness of TNLA. Examples of potential misuse include distribution of information or opinions potentially damaging to member companies, business categories, regions, or the state organization; information or opinions contradictory to TNLA ethics policies; and information or opinions contradictory to established TNLA positions on legislative and regulatory matters.

Noncompliance with these policies may lead to action by TNLA against the offending member, up to and including denial of membership and other possible legal remedies commensurate with potential or actual damages to the reputation or effectiveness of TNLA, its membership, and/or its programs.

I, _____, am aware of and agree to abide by the above policy.
